

Etienne Barnard is research leader of the Pretoria HLT Research Group. He obtained a Ph.D. in Electronics and Computer Engineering from Carnegie Mellon University in 1989. Etienne has served on the faculty of the University of Pretoria (1989 to 1993 and since 2001) and the Oregon Graduate Institute (from 1993 to 1997). His research interests include the development and application of the Human Language Technologies in the developing world; characterization of the Plasmodium Falciparum genome; and the prediction of the protein secondary structure.